

Backcountry "Ski" Tour 12/23/15

Snowless trauma has severely afflicted the backcountry ski fellowship this early winter for far too long. A few members are surviving these stifling conditions by stretching the definition of ski to include hiking boot. When all you're handed is lemons, you can always make lemonade.

Nothing quite like a refreshing Christmas dip in Miller Brook to finish an arduous tour.